

Media Release: Special Event – Blackadder live on stage

'His Great Grandfather was a king, but not for more than 30 seconds, so begins the tale of the Black Adder.

And now the stage version of the cult TV black comedy 'BLACKADDER' is coming to a theatre near you.

The original may be dead but his bastard Great Grandson, Lord Edmund Blackadder, is now a leading courtier to the ditsy Queen Elizabeth 1.

Assisted by the clueless but fashionable Lord Percy Percy (the stupidest git that ever drew breath), and a dung eating cunning servant named Baldrick (the filthy), he is on the lookout for funds to support his Renaissance lifestyle.

His chief protagonists are Queenie's faithful side kicks Nursie and Melchie, and his bank manager, the sadistic baby eating Bishop of Bath and Wells.

Peppered with many other well loved characters such as the lovely Kate/Bob, puritan vegetarian folk Lord and Lady Whiteadder, and the flashy Lord Flashheart, 'BLACKADDER' live on stage is playing for a limited time and is not to be missed.

Blue Mountains based comedy theatre company NTT Productions, presents a selection of episodes from "BLACKADDER" series 2, with the special permission of the writers Ben Elton and Richard Curtis, and all royalties go to the charity Comic Relief.

"BLACKADDER" is not scripted as a play and NTT director Carol Dicker is thrilled to have acquired the very limited rights to present it on stage. 'It is a once in a lifetime opportunity for our company and for the audiences in Sydney's west'.
